College Station

Ends Dedications

There is one in every crowd. One person who is the "practical joker;" One person that will make life hard for the others. One of our college radio stations has fallen prey to such people.

The policy of the Inter College Radio Network includes the maintaining of standards and acceptable operating procedures. WNTC is part of this network and adheres to the easm policies. As a service to the students, this rock and roll station accepts record dedications from the student bodies of Clarkson and State. These dedications were repeated over the air in good faith of their validity. The dedication line as it is called was maintained in the faith that it would not be abused.

However, it has been misused and will not be back on the air until Monday, October 19. Then it will only be on a trial basis subject to immediate and indefinite cancelation by the administrations. If the students want to have the dedication line continued on WNTC they should take an active interest and do away with the immaturities that the practical jokers find amusing.
